Garron Ironvow

CHARACTER NAME

Paladin (Oath of Devotion) 3 CLASS & LEVEL	Mountain Dwarf ANCESTRY
Acolyte BACKGROUND	Tom PLAYER
he/him PRONOUNS	Lawful Good ALIGNMENT

STR +3 (16)

DEX +0 (10)

CON +3 (16)

INT +0 (10)

WIS +1 (12)

CHA +2 (14)

ARMOR CLASS 10

HIT POINTS 31 / 31

SPEED 30 ft

PROF. BONUS +2

ABILITIES & PROFICIENCIES

- AC: base 10; 16 in chain mail; 18 with chain mail and shield
- Saving throws: Wisdom +3, Charisma +4; initiative +0
- Athletics +5, Insight +3, Persuasion +4, Religion +2
- Fighting Style — Protection: reaction, impose disadvantage on an attack against an ally within 5 ft while wielding a shield
- Divine Sense: detect celestials, fiends, and undead within 60 ft; 3 uses per long rest
- Lay on Hands: 15-HP pool per long rest; touch to heal, or spend 5 to cure a disease or neutralize a poison
- Divine Smite: expend a spell slot on a melee hit for...

EQUIPMENT & WEALTH

- Chain mail and shield (sunburst sigil)
- Longsword and three javelins
- Iron sunburst holy symbol and prayer book
- Priest's pack

PURSE 140 gp

ATTACKS, SPELLS & FEATURES

- Spellcasting: Charisma; save DC 12; spell attack +4; slots: 1st 3

OATH SPELLS (ALWAYS PREPARED)

- Protection from Evil and Good (action, touch, concentration 10 min): target resists damage from and has advantage on saves against aberrations, celestials, elementals, fey, fiends, undead
- Sanctuary (bonus action, 30 ft): attackers must pass a Wis save or choose another target; ends if the warded creature attacks or harms another

1ST-LEVEL SPELLS

- Bless (action, 30 ft, concentration 1 min): up to 3 creatures add 1d4 to attack rolls and saving throws
- Cure Wounds (action, touch): restore 1d8 + 2 HP
- Shield of Faith (bonus action, 60 ft, concentration 10 min): one creature gains +2 AC

WEAPON ATTACKS

- Longsword +5: 1d8 + 3 slashing (1d10 + 3 two-handed)
- Javelin +5: 1d6 + 3 piercing; range 30/120

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION

Broad and grey-bearded even by dwarven standards, Garron stands like a doorway nothing gets through without his say-so. His beard is bound in three iron rings, one etched with a psalm he recited over his brother's grave. He wears dented chain mail over a threadbare devotional tabard, and his shield bears a hand-hammered sunburst that has taken more blows than his face has.

CURRENT STATE

Mood: Steady, solemn, quietly attentive

Disposition: Protective by default, slow to fully trust

Garron Ironvow

THE PERSON BEHIND THE NUMBERS

VALUES & DRIVES

- A vow is only as good as the day it costs you something.
- Mercy is not weakness; it is discipline aimed at another person's good.
- Speak the hard true thing before the comfortable false one.
- Stand exactly where the frightened person needs someone standing.

FEARS & WOUNDS

- The brother he swore to protect and buried instead.
- Doubt arriving disguised as reasonable caution.
- Failing the oath quietly, in small omissions no one would notice.
- Being granted mercy he doesn't believe he's earned.

VOICE & MANNER

- Speaks plainly and slowly, like every sentence might be sworn testimony.
- Prays aloud without embarrassment, mid-conversation if it matters.
- Rarely raises his voice; lowers it instead when truly angry.
- Kindness delivered bluntly, without cushioning.

LOYALTIES

- The Hammerlight Vigil, the dwarven martial order that raised him in the faith.
- His brother's memory and the oath sworn at his grave.
- Anyone too weak or too stubborn to defend themselves.
- Companions who keep their word even when it costs them.

INTERNAL CONTRADICTION

Garron preaches mercy but privately measures every failure against a vow he's not sure he can ever finish paying off. He forgives everyone faster than he forgives himself, and mistakes that asymmetry for humility.

SIGNIFICANT DETAIL

Three iron rings bound in his beard, one etched with a half-remembered psalm.

OPEN THREADS

- The debt he believes he still owes his brother's memory
- Whether the Hammerlight Vigil would recognize the vow he's kept
- Driftmoor's gathering danger, and whether devotion is enough to meet it

NOTES FROM THE ROAD