PERSONALITY TRAITS

Quick and dry-humored, Cinnabar deflects praise and confession alike with perfect timing, then quietly shows up when it matters.

RACE & CLASS PROFILE

Slight and quick, with copper-red hair cut unevenly short, freckled olive skin, and moss-green eyes that miss very little. She dresses in charcoal leathers and a wine-red scarf, moving with practiced economy. A silver ring she never explains stays on her hand even in sleep.

EQUIPMENT

- Studded leather (AC 15)
- Rapier, shortbow, and dagger
- Thieves' tools and burglar's pack
- Unexplained silver ring

BACKSTORY

Cinnabar cut her teeth as a burglar working the rooftops for a guild she's since put a great deal of distance between herself and. An old bond, represented by an unexplained silver ring she never removes even in sleep, still shapes more of her choices than she'd admit. She arrived in Driftmoor chasing rumors of a moor-witch who trades secrets for memories, unsure whether that's exactly what she needs or exactly what would ruin her — so for now she watches, listens, and keeps one hand close to every metaphorical lock, including the one on herself.
