Combat

AC	HP	Hit Dice	Speed	Initiative
13 (mage armor: 15)	20 / 20	3d6	30 walk / 30 fly	+2

Size: Small. Flight from level 1 — cannot fly while wearing medium/heavy armor.

Skills & Senses

Proficient: Acrobatics +4, Arcana +3, Performance +5, Persuasion +5, Nature +3.
Tools: Flute (entertainer), disguise kit.
Senses: Passive Perception 10.
Languages: Common, Sylvan, Elvish.

Fairy Traits

Flight: Fly speed equal to walking speed; cannot fly in medium/heavy armor.
Fairy Magic: Know Druidcraft at will. At 3rd level, cast Faerie Fire and Enlarge/Reduce once per long rest each (Cha-based).
Fey: Your creature type is Fey, not Humanoid (affects certain spells like Hold Person).
Size: Small. Squeezes through openings as small as 1 ft.

Class Features

Sorcerous Origin — Wild Magic:
- Wild Magic Surge: After casting a sorcerer spell of 1st level or higher, the DM may have you roll d20; on a 1, roll on the Wild Magic Surge table.
- Tides of Chaos: Once per long rest, gain advantage on one attack, ability check, or saving throw. The DM may then trigger a Wild Magic Surge to refresh this feature.

Font of Magic: 3 Sorcery Points. Convert spell slots ↔ sorcery points.
Metamagic (2 known): Subtle Spell (no V/S components — 1 SP), Heightened Spell (one target rolls save with disadvantage — 3 SP).

Spellcasting

Cha-based. Spell save DC 13, spell attack +5. Slots: 4 / 2 (1st / 2nd).

Cantrips (4 known): Fire Bolt, Light, Prestidigitation, Dancing Lights.
1st Level (4 known): Mage Armor, Shield, Faerie Fire (also racial), Sleep.
2nd Level (1 known): Mirror Image.
Pippa thinks of her spells less as a list and more as moods. Fire Bolt is the angry one. Sleep is the kind one. She does not always cast the appropriate mood.

Equipment

Weapons: Dagger (+4, 1d4+2, thrown 20/60), shortbow (+4, 1d6+2, 80/320 ft).
Focus: A tiny silver bell on a leather thong, worn around her neck (sorcerous focus).
Kit: Entertainer's pack, costume, flute, disguise kit, a bedroll the size of a handkerchief.
On her person: 15 gp, a small leather pouch of seeds (mixed wildflowers), three pebbles she likes the shape of, a thimble of honey, a folded scrap of paper with her brother's last letter, and — worn beneath her tunic, never visible — a thumbnail-sized locket containing a single charred splinter of barnwood. She has never shown anyone.
Quirk item: An acorn-cap that she insists is her teacup. It is.

Personality

Trait: Cannot sit still. Hums when not speaking, sparkles faintly when excited.
Ideal: Joy is a kind of courage. The world is too full of careful, frightened people; she refuses to add to their number.
Bond: A locket worn under her tunic that no one has ever seen. She has never told anyone what is in it.
Flaw: No impulse control. None. Will say the unsaid thing, do the forbidden thing, and try the spell labeled "DO NOT TRY," in that order, in ten seconds.

Backstory

Pippa was born in a hollow oak in the Whistlewren, a fey-thin pocket of the Long Wood, to parents who loved her very much and could not keep her anywhere for long. She left home at twenty-eight — very young, but very Pippa — and has been spiralling outward since, visiting eleven cities, briefly living in three, and being politely asked to leave nine.

She insists she has a happy backstory and a brother who writes. The only thing she does not discuss is her fourteenth year, when her magic first arrived and she did not know how to hold it, and a small barn burned down, and a horse did not get out. She has since taken her magic very seriously, in the manner of someone who does not look like they are taking anything seriously.

She came to Driftmoor because she heard there is a moor-witch here who knows old fey magic. She has a question she would like to ask. It is not desperate. It is curious. But she would like an answer.
